As a son of two preachers, Chris Jones was raised in Pine Bluff with a strong sense of faith. For Chris though, this faith never collided with his love for science—in fact, it only made it grow stronger. He attended Morehouse College on a NASA scholarship for physics and math, then went on to study at MIT, becoming a nuclear engineer and earning a Ph.D. in urban planning.

Chris is running to build an Arkansas with high-quality preschool for all families, affordable broadband for every home and economic development focused on creating high-wage jobs. #PBJ

“Arkansas is ready for new ideas—and new leadership that dares to dream big. Leadership that brings us together.”
